We are Here to Serve You

For almost 50 years, the doctors, nurses and other health care professionals at York Central Hospital have been proud to provide quality health care for the people of Vaughan, Richmond Hill and the surrounding areas. As our community has grown and become more diverse, so too has our health care team, our services and our facilities. There is one thing, however, that has never changed – that's our commitment to provide expert and compassionate care to you and your family.

State-of-the-Art Care

Since 2008 our District Stroke Centre has cared for over 2,200 patients providing life saving stroke prevention clinics, treatment and rehabilitation significantly reducing the risks of disability and death for our patients. Our Woman and Child team has recently created a one-stop Maternal Fetal Medicine Service for mothers with high risk pregnancies supported by our highly skilled Neonatal Intensive Care team. Our Surgery team is a leading provider of minimally invasive surgery resulting in less pain, shorter recovery times, smaller scars and a reduced risk of complications for patients. We are proud of the state-of-the-art care that we provide for our patients and look forward to creating new centres of excellence in the future.

Creating a Major Regional Health System

As health care professionals who both live and work here in York Region, we know all about the challenge of providing health care services in this rapidly growing community. Currently our hospital provides care to over a half million people and our Emergency Department is one of the busiest and most efficient in the province. In helping to meet this challenge, we are excited about the opportunity to create a Major Regional Health System including the building of a new hospital in Vaughan and the further development of York Central Hospital. A top priority of the new health system is to provide care as close to home as possible for all members of our community.

Our Commitment to the People of Southwest York Region

Since 1963 it has been our privilege to serve the people of Southwest York Region. We are deeply committed to enriching the health and well being of our diverse community by providing quality health care for our growing community. As our plans for a Major Regional Health System move forward, we look forward to the opportunity to expand our services and facilities to better serve you and your family.
